

DEATH DOINGS.

—Ex-Gov. Silas Woodson, an uncle of Miss Olive Woodson, who is a niece of Mr. S. H. Shanks, of this place, died at St. Joseph, Mo., on the 9th, of old age. He was born in Knox county, Ky., and when 25 years of age, was elected a member of the legislature and later commonwealth's attorney for the 12th district and was active in framing the State constitution. He moved to Missouri in 1854 and in 1872 was elected governor by a large majority.

—At Stanford, Oct. 8, Mrs. Mary Jane Helm, nee Logan, mother of Rev. Benj. Helm, fell asleep in Jesus, as she had lived, a quiet and gentle Christian. An invalid for several years, her last illness came upon her about 10 days before she died. She bore all in calm, Christian resignation. She was of pious, Scotch-Irish ancestry, who settled at Salem, in the valley of Virginia, whence her grand father, John Logan, and wife, nee McClure, emigrated to Kentucky and settled on Logans Creek, about two miles below Stanford. Two of John Logan's daughters married Paxtons, of this county also. Her father, William Logan, and wife, Sallie Perkins, settled in Barren county, where he was many years clerk of the court. The 11th of September, 1838, she was married to Henry B. Helm, of Elizabethtown, where she lived over 40 years. After his death she made her home with her only surviving child, Rev. Ben Helm.

About 50 years since, she connected herself with the Christian church at a meeting held in court-house and being a regenerated person, she ever lived a pure, lovely, Christian life, often spoken of her thus: "If I could be a Christian like your mother I would wish to be one."

Very delicate, yet with intense vitality and self control, she outlived parents, brothers, sisters and all her own family except one. A wife, the pride of her husband; a mother, whose children rose up to call her blessed; a Christian, who honored the profession, she sleeps in Jesus. Be ye also ready, dear reader.

HER SON.

—At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after an illness of a year or more, Mr. J. M. Hendricks died peacefully of a child going to sleep, aged 69. A few moments previous he asked to be turned over, his request was granted and in less time than it takes to tell it the spirit flew to its destination. Fifty years ago he married Miss Mary Newell, and eight children were born to them. His second marriage was to Mrs. Mattie Baker and no children blessed their union. He had been a member of the Christian church since 19 years of age and died after having repeatedly expressed his readiness to go, adding that he would love to linger yet awhile with his family, whom he loved with an unusual devotion, but he always concluded by saying "The Lord's will be done." He was a practical Christian, and lived what he preached—duty to his family, his God and fellowmen. For 22 consecutive years he was sexton at Buffalo Cemetery. Twenty-six years ago when the cholera was raging in Stanford and everybody was leaving town, he took his family to Highland to evade the ravages of the dreadful disease. While there, in a week or so, two children sickened and died with the typhoid fever. He stated then that thereafter he would never run from anything again but put a greater trust in Him who doeth all things well, and he kept his vow till the angel of death visited him and collected the debt that all must pay. For 35 years he had been a consistent member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, who administered to his wants while sick, followed his body to the grave, at which they performed the last sad rites of the Order and which they will see is kept as green as will be their remembrance of the departed brother. Rev. J. T. Sharrard officiated at the grave, where a large concourse of sorrowing friends had gathered.

When o'er thy silent grave Eve's shadows creep, Fond memory ever will Her vigil keep.
Thunders may peal above, Storms o'er thee madly sweep, Yet undisturbed will be Thy dreamless sleep.

—In his charge to the Mercer county grand jury, Judge Sandley was very pronounced in his condemnation of the outrages committed by the free turnpike mobs and showed that in addition to violating the law, they make the cause odious. According to the Democrat, he said, on this point:

People who are gravely considering whether the county should purchase this corporate property with a view to free travel will pause to further consider whether a measure which is advocated by people who practice spoliation is worthy of their support. It is human nature that we often judge a new principle or an untried policy by the character and habits of its advocates. If we are evenly balanced in judgment or doubtful of the proper course, the doubt is speedily resolved against that side which is upheld by those whose methods are unlawful. But I do not place the necessity for your vigilant search for the perpetrators upon this lower plane. I urge it because the conduct is outrageous in morals and offensive to law. * * * When the people vote for free turnpikes and pay for them, then all can lawfully have them! Let us await that day!

JOHN SHERMAN, who is charged with being the chiefest of the conspirators of "the crime of 1873," when silver was demonetized, changed his views in 1878 and wrote the following which appears in the Report of the Monetary Conference of that year, page 139. After referring to his letter written to the Monetary Conference at Paris, in which he favored the single gold standard, he says:

"At that time the wisest among us did not anticipate the sudden fall of silver or the rise of gold that has occurred. This uncertainty of the relation between the two metals is one of the chief arguments in favor of a monometallic system. But other arguments, showing the dangerous effect upon industry, by dropping one of the precious metals from the standard of value, outweigh, in my mind, all theoretical objections to the bimetallic system. I am thoroughly convinced, that if it were possible for the leading commercial nations to fix, by agreement, an arbitrary relation between silver and gold, even though the market value might vary somewhat, from time to time, it would be a measure of the greatest good to all nations."

So it will be seen that great men change their minds. It is only fools and pig-headed people, who think they get any idea in their head, that can not be moved either by reason or object lessons of the plainest character.

AFTER naming several lawyers to serve in the White-Colson case at London, each of whom had an excuse for not serving, Gov. Bradley finally hit on one who accepted. It was John Marshall, of Louisville, who went to London and after hearing the motion to set aside White's order to restrain the clerks from putting Colson's name under the log cabin, did so. White's lawyers then asked for time to move for a reinstatement before a judge of the court of appeals. To this motion Colson's attorneys objected, and took the position that no injunction having been granted a motion for reinstatement of a restraining order could not be allowed. On the latter question Judge Marshall decided to give Mr. White a day to present his case to the court of appeals and Judge Alcorn, one of his attorneys went to Frankfort yesterday, absolutely sure that White would be victorious.

HON. JOHN B. THOMPSON told us yesterday that the statement made in the Courier-Journal and Times that he had admitted "confidentially" or otherwise that Davison would beat him for Congress in this district is a fabrication out of the white cloth. On the contrary he has never failed to say and say it truthfully and confidently that he will be elected by 1,000 to 1,500 majority, no matter how much money the republicans put in the district. Mr. Thompson looks like a winner and will be a winner, notwithstanding the mean efforts of the boltercat papers to defeat him by miserable, lying statements.

On the 11th ballot of the second convention in the 7th district the democrats succeeded in making a nomination for Congress. Carroll was dropped on the 10th and his strength going principally to E. E. Settle, of Owen, he received 873 votes to Bronston's 803. The nomination was then made unanimous and the meeting broke up in a love feast. The claim is made that Breckinridge will beat him easily, but this seems a wild proposition in face of the fact that the district gave the good majority against Bradley of 4,580.

CHICAGO celebrated the 25th anniversary of the fire from which the New Chicago sprang, Friday, and the republicans and their aid society seized upon it to make a demonstration. It is claimed that over 100,000 men marched in the parade during the day, which the boosters counted in their columns. At night the silver people paraded and brought out a crowd that fully discounted that of the day.

THE man who a few years ago was governor of Florida ran for the office of county clerk at the recent election and got it. When men get the thirst for office their ambitions work on the sliding scale and they take what they can get, if they can't get what they want.

THE Palmer and Buckner ticket is a porcupine.—Louisville Times. Ain't you mistaken? Possibly you mean that it is an animal of the genus porcupine. At any rate the odorament is of the nature to drive all good democrats from it.

Tax boltercat committee in the 7th district has declared W. C. P. Breckinridge their candidate for Congress and the republicans through the Leader have accepted him as their candidate. This is a nice kettle of fish, but just the kind for such a candidate. Two years ago republicans and certain democrats could not say things mean enough to cover the cologne's case. Now though he has shown no fruits meet for repentance for the great sin he committed before God and men, they hold him to their immaculate breasts and fondle him as their long lost brother. The bad fellows that politics makes are as disgusting as they are strange. Such an unholy alliance ought to have and will have the seal of condemnation placed upon it. By the way it is now told that Denny's reluctance to get off the track was a grand stand play to keep other republicans off the course and thereby fulfill his part of the deal entered into by him with Breckinridge two years ago, when Col. Breckinridge promised Denny to help him beat Owens if Denny and the republicans would help him go back this year. There are a great many tricks in politics and these two tricksters are as tricky as ever tried to trick.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL is not given to botching, believing that it is the fool's argument, but it is disposed to vary its practice for once and float this deal to the world, without the aid or consent of any other nation. We will wager £300,000 that Palmer and Buckner will not carry a single precinct in the United States. Boltercats can now put up or shut up.

MR. J. T. OWENS will speak at McKinney to-night at 7; Highland the 16th at 7; Waynesburg the 17th at 1 o'clock, and at other points to be announced. He is full of democratic doctrine and his speeches are highly spoken of.

THE Stringer boys for cutting John Martin, as he was returning from church at Neal's Creek some two weeks ago, were tried Saturday and acquitted. In the absence of Judge Davison, 'Squire John Bailey was called on to try the case, but the Stringers swore him off the bench and "Deputy Judge" W. L. Dawson was substituted.

A "CAMPBELLITE" came to us the other day and "demanded" that we make a retraction. He says that it was "two Baptists" that had the scrap and not a Baptist and Campbellite. Campbellites never act that way, he avers, and we are not here to dispute it. One of the combatants says if he had seen the other 10 minutes afterwards he would have apologized.

FIFTEEN YEARS.—The jury at Harrodsburg gave James Downey 15 years for murdering Policeman Russell, when a death sentence would have hardly atoned for the crime. Prosecuting Attorney J. S. Owley, Jr., tells us that the jury was composed of six men from Boyle and six from Mercer. Downey had a hung jury at his trial during the May term.

COUNTY COURT.—"Deputy" Judge W. L. Dawson presided yesterday. The wills of Mrs. M. J. Helm and J. M. Hendricks were admitted to probate. Rev. Ben Helm is made executor of the first, which after a $200 bequest to a college for the education of ministers, bequeaths all her property to her grand-children. Mrs. Martha Jane Hendricks is executor of the other, and to her all the property is given, the personal absolutely and the real during her life. Assessments of the various turnpikes were made for taxation.

BORN to the wife of O. P. Huffman, a 12-pound boy. He hallooed for Bryan the first thing.

A DREAM REALIZED.—Sunday night the foreman of this paper dreamed that somebody brought him half a hog, a sack of flour, and so on, and that Bryan would be elected. Monday morning the first part of the dream was realized by a visit and the liberality of Mr. George S. Carpenter and wife, and he knows the latter part of the dream will be realized November 3d.

DISAPPOINTED.—Deputy U. S. Marshal William Stringer, of Pittsburgh, was here on official business yesterday. He tells us that "Laurel's all right" and that Jas. D. Black will carry it, while Bryan and Sewall will run not far behind him. Over 2,000 people gathered at London Saturday, he says, to hear Senator Blackburn and when they heard he was too ill to fill his appointment their disappointment was great indeed. Mr. W. C. Webb, of that county, made a fine speech and was loudly applauded. The Bryan club of Pittsburgh, 132 strong, marched to London in a body.

OLD MONEY.—Mr. M. C. Reynolds, of Waynesburg, in a rare collection of old money, has a piece coined by the French mint 163 years ago. It is of pure silver and considerably larger than our standard silver dollar. On one side it bears the Latin inscription "Sit nomen domine benedictum," and the date 1733; and the other, "Lud. XV. D. G. Fr. Et Nov. Rex O." The latter is an abbreviation of the following sentence in Latin: "Louis 15th By the Grace of God King of France and Navarre." It also contains a likeness of that monarch's head, but no other distinguishing mark. It is in a remarkably good state of preservation, and has doubtless spent many of its days in other pockets than those of its present owner. Mr. Reynolds has refused an offer of $20 for it. He is now so strong for Bryan that no consideration would induce him to part with anything made of silver.

THE SPEAKING.—There wasn't so much speaking here yesterday as was expected. Judge Tervin telegraphed that he was sick and Mr. Wigot got sick and left, so the Hon. R. T. Tyler and John B. Thompson had the boards all to themselves. The former led off in an hour and a half speech for Palmer and Buckner, on which ticket he is elector for the State-at-large, after being introduced by Col. W. G. Welch in a few well turned sentences. His effort was listened to by an audience packed like sardines and is spoken of as being a fair and forcible presentation of his side of the question.

It was 3 o'clock when Mr. Thompson took the stand. He needed no introduction, for the ovation that he received was proof that everybody knew him. He waded right into business and soon had the crowd laughing or applauding as he told a funny anecdote or clinched a good point. It is unfortunate that Mr. Thompson has to answer a boltercat here every time. Davison is afraid to meet him and they went out any of his gang against him, so he has to speak against men who ought to be with him, instead of trying to defeat democratic candidates by siding and abetting republicans.

Mr. Tyler wasn't able to stand the fire and left before Mr. Thompson got through, leaving his rejoinder to be forever unsaid.

—Elijah E. Owens and Mrs. Callie D. Ross, of the Hubble section, will be married here today.

—Jack Egler, aged 21, and Miss Lottie M. Cook, 17, were married in Severance & Son's store yesterday by Eld. Long, of Highland. The clerks and pretty sales ladies of the store stood up with them during the ceremony.

—William Brooks, a Negro boy at Indianapolis, shot and killed Frank Matthews, a young white man, who was teasing him.

—Don't fail to attend the sale of H. M. Johnson's effects near Milledgeville tomorrow. Besides the farm of 175 acres a good deal of stock will sell.

—Wm. Baker crushed his wife's skull with rocks on his farm near Pineville. After committing the fearful deed he carried her home, where she lived long enough to tell the horrible story. Baker was placed in jail and was to have been tried yesterday for lunacy.

Loose clothes and dowry cushions bring only a negative sort of comfort to the woman who is suffering with some disease or derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Some clothes and some positions make the pain and use discomfort less. Perhaps the nerves are most affected and this in turn disturbs the digestion. Nothing will ever completely relieve but a radical cure. The start of so-called "female complaints" may be a very slight thing indeed. It may be that in the beginning some small hygienic measures would stop the trouble. Certainly at this time a little bit of the right medicine would stop it. When the trouble becomes worse it is harder to cure, but still it can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will positively cure any trouble of that character. It may be absolutely relied upon. It affords lasting relief to a woman whose natural modesty has kept her from consulting a physician.

Sent 21 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's root page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

Those who believe chronic diarrhoea to be curable should read what Mrs. P. E. Graham, of Cedar Mills, La., has to say on the subject, viz: "I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have tried every kind of medicine for it. At last I found a remedy that effected a cure and that was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy." This medicine can do all that is claimed for it. It is pleasant to take and never fails to effect a cure.

A few weeks ago the editor was taken with a severe cold that caused him to be in a most miserable condition. It was undoubtedly a bad case of the grippe and recognizing it as such, he took immediate steps to bring about a speedy cure. From the advertisement of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the many good recommendations in its favor, he concluded to make a first trial of the medicine. To say that it was satisfactory in its results is putting it very mildly indeed. It acted like magic and the result was a speedy and permanent cure. We have no hesitancy in recommending this excellent Cough Remedy to any one afflicted with a cough or cold in any form. The Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, Maryland. PROVING THE CRIME.

How Silver Demonetization Has Destroyed American Industries.

American Farmers and Producers Legally Robbed for the Benefit of European Shylocks—Victims of British Influence.

The following facts and the legitimate deductions drawn from them are worth the careful consideration of every farmer, laborer, mechanic and thoughtful citizen.

Silver in 1872 was worth $1.32 per ounce, caused by French mints being open to coinage at 15 1/2 to 1. Its par value at sixteen to one was then $129 1/4. Silver in 1896 is worth 66 cents per ounce, caused by closing the mints to coinage for the public.

How It Affects the Farmer.

How this decline in the value of silver affects the farmer may be shown by taking wheat as an illustration. A bushel of wheat was worth in India in 1872 one ounce of silver, or $1.32. In 1896 the bushel of wheat was still worth one ounce of silver, but the ounce of silver, through operations of the shylocks, was worth only 66 cents. The following comparison puts the matter more clearly and shows the extraordinary decline in prices:

1872	1896
$1.32 Cost in India.	$.66
.17 Ocean freight and charges.	.15 1.47 Selling price in Liverpool.	.81
.33 F'r't and charges from Chicago.	.24 1.16 Price in Chicago.	.57
.20 Freight and charges from Iowa.	.15
.96 Price in Iowa.	.42

As all our exports to Europe are sold in competition with silver-using countries, the decline in prices, it is estimated, makes a difference in the value of American products of more than $1,000,000,000 (one thousand million) annually. The American farmer and miner loses that sum.

Foreigners the Gainers.

The European manufacturer and tradesman gain that sum.

They cannot get food products and raw materials for manufacture at half price if they cannot get silver at half price. They cannot compete with American manufacturers in the markets of the world unless they retain that advantage. We are selling all products that are in competition with silver-using countries on the silver basis of India, and it fixes the price here for all of such products.

We are taking European goods in exchange for our products on the gold basis of Europe, and that equally applies to all prices here, except as modified by our tariff.

This policy cannot be long continued without impoverishing American farmers and destroying the value of their property. It will force them to the same plane of living and expenditure as the people with whom they must compete.

Remonetization the Remedy.

With silver coinage restored, not only will every coined dollar be the equivalent of gold, but the price of every ounce of silver bullion and of every pound or bushel of such products will be advanced in proportion.

The United States is now the chief producer of silver, and is in position to restore silver coinage. Restoring silver coinage as in 1872 will restore prices as in 1872.

English influence and English necessity secured demonetization in 1873. English influence for England's advantage has maintained it until the present time.

Legalized Robbery Must Cease.

Give back to our farmers and miners the $1,000,000,000 a year and it will make a market for our factories and give employment at good prices for our mechanics and laborers.

Common justice demands that the legalized robbery of some 40,000 miners for the benefit of this and other governments shall cease. And while such robbery begins with the miner, it immediately involves every real wealth-producer in the United States.

No factory is ever closed when it can sell its products at a profit.

You cannot start factories by destroying the purchasing power of more than half the people.

Gold Standard Destructive.

If consumers cannot buy at present they surely cannot if the prices of manufactured goods are to be advanced by a higher tariff.

A continuance of the gold standard means—and it can mean nothing else—yet lower prices; yet more suffering. Wall street represents England. Banks everywhere are under the dictation of Wall street. They have assisted to establish the ruinous policy and are helping to maintain it.

It means destruction to American industry. But the people are beginning to see how they have been robbed and fooled and crushed. The day of deliverance is near at hand.

A Firm Stand for Silver.

The popular colored cartoon paper, Up-to-Date, which has heretofore been neutral politically, in its present issue announces to the world its purpose to hereafter give its pages heartily to the cause of Bryan and bimetalism. This endorsement of the silver party is of much importance, since Up-to-Date is a high-class periodical, ably edited, and has a circulation of over 100,000, extending to all parts of the country. Being conducted and edited by western energy and brains it will no doubt prove a worthy competitor of the eastern goldbug cartoon papers, its present circulation being greater than that of any other cartoon paper in the United States. In the cause of American financial independence and the election of Bryan it will certainly prove a power and a vote winner.

Bourke Cockran once asserted that "the farmers of the west work their jaws more than their farms." Now he invades the west and will try to work the farmers.

MIX UP IN THE ORIENT.

The Great Powers Facing Each Other on the Coast of China.

Lieutenant Richard Mitchell, U. S. N., retired, who has just returned from Shanghai, describes the very interesting state of affairs in the east, where he arrived just at the close of the China-Japan war. At that time he saw 17 Russian warships in the harbor of Nagasaki. Any other power would have at once inquired the reason for such a demonstration, but the Japanese kept perfectly quiet. He expects trouble in that neighborhood at any time and says that the Russians, whom he describes as the brightest diplomats in the east, have got the English on the Chinese coast so they do not sleep nights. Russia has her eastern station at Vladivostok, in Siberia, which is unsuitable for such a base in many ways, especially in winter, when the place freezes up. They have been for a long time anxious to get Port Arthur, which is much more convenient, and it was for this reason that the Japanese were obliged to take Formosa and $300,000,000 from China instead of the very desirable stations on the Liao Tung peninsula, of which Port Arthur is one. The Russians have been laying the Transsiberian railway with the expressed intention of having the terminus at Vladivostok, but it is now believed that they have obtained permission from China to have a terminus at Port Arthur, which case they would soon have their station there. Then the music is likely to begin. The English would seize the Saddle Islands, near the mouth of the Yangtze-Kiang river, which, in addition to Quelpart, near Amoy, and the French are even now trying to make their way up from Tonquin. The Russians are said to have 80,000 troops at Vladivostok, and the Japanese are arming themselves, reorganizing their army and preparing for an attempt at invasion.—Worcester Gazette.

THE HAIR OF NAPOLEON.

Florist Bagley of Kansas Owns a Valuable Relic.

At Abilene, Kan., a curious relic has come to light. C. H. Bagley, a florist, owns a lock of the hair of the first Napoleon. It is of undoubted authenticity and is probably the only bit of the dead emperor now on the continent. Mr. Bagley is a native of the island of St. Helena and his family has lived there for generations. His father was captain of the tomb for 15 years preceding the removal of the remains of the emperor to France. His mother was a friend of Mrs. Lownd, the nurse of Napoleon in his last illness, and when the Bagley family left the island in 1860 she divided with her friend the choicest of her possessions. She had cut the lock from the head of the emperor on the night when he was lying in state after he had been dressed for burial. It was done with the consent of General Bertrand out of respect for the attention the nurse had shown her distinguished patient. About 30 hairs are in the lock, black with a brownish tinge, and they are sealed in a bottle. Along with them is a bit of plaster from the room in which the emperor died and a piece of the coffin in which he lay. Mortar from the tomb and a tiny bit of wood from the grave are also in the collection, which is valued highly by its possessor. Mr. Bagley is well educated and was 17 years old when he left the island. His sisters, all over 21 at that time, have made affidavit to the conditions under which the hair came into the family and this document is filed with the relics.—Chicago Times-Herald.

THE PLAGUE OF NOISES.

Even Thunder Must Be Suppressed For the Benefit of Man.

The agreeable suggestion of Dr. J. H. Girdner of New York that the "plague of city noises" be removed through the efforts of a society for the prevention of noises should be broadened in its scope. Science has so annihilated the former obstacles of distance that not only the noises of a city, but all cities and towns, too, should be included in this fascinating crusade. Moreover, the local societies should be complemented by national bodies, and these in turn by an international association, and thus the germ, as Dr. Girdner's idea becomes, would expand in the last instance into a magnificent attack on all noise wherever it exists on the face of the earth.

It does not require much of an imagination to foresee that in the course of time noises within the earth, such as earthquakes, and above the earth, such as thunder, would be included among the candidates for suppression. In fact, since Dr. Girdner's entire plan is based on the effect of noise on the nerves it is apparent that thunder, the loudest noise of all, disturbs more nerves and disturbs each nerve more in a minute than all the other noises in a day.—Chicago Tribune.

THIS TIME IN GEORGIA.

Still Another Inventor Who Has a Perfect Flying Machine.

The flying machine man was in Waycross the other day. He is C. W. Hicks of Melrose, Ga., and his machine is "patent applied for." Mr. Hicks' machine is a wonderful invention if it will do all that he claims for it.

He says that he has the model concealed in his house and will not let any one see it until he shall have received his letters patent. Mr. Hicks says that he will fly to Washington after a few weeks. He claims that his flying machine will do away with bicycles.

The inventor claims that he can manufacture the machine cheaper than a bicycle can be made.

The machine has two large wings and a huge tail. It is to be operated by pedals, and only one person can fly with it.—Atlanta Constitution.

CANADA LIQUOR LAW.

PROHIBITION MAKING HEADWAY IN THE DOMINION.

The New Minister Is Pledged to Submit the Question to Vote—The Plan Is to Prohibit Absolutely the Sale of Liquor Except by the Government.

"I tried to get the council to adopt a resolution favoring prohibition," said E. L. Bond of Montreal at the Windsor hotel, referring to the recent council at Winnipeg of the Canadian Church of England. "I was one of the lay delegates," continued Mr. Bond, "my father being bishop of Montreal. But the prohibition motion was made too late in the session. The council appointed a committee, however, which will report next year. You understand that the question of absolutely prohibiting the sale, use or possession of liquor or alcohol for anything except mechanical, medicinal or scientific purposes has become a very vital and urgent matter in Canada. Years ago the Canadians—well, they weren't afraid of whisky. But a great change has been brought about. Premier Laurier said the other day: 'Not many years ago, if I wished to make a successful canvass, I was obliged absolutely to saturate my lieutenants and supporters with strong drink. But in the last campaign, although I spoke in a score of cities and towns, I saw only two assemblies where men were noticeably intoxicated.' The premier is right. There is a great army of prohibitionists in the Dominion just now. Why, when the Liberals were making their recent canvass, they had to insert in their platform a plank binding them, if successful, to secure a plebiscite from the entire country on the question of prohibitory legislation. If that plebiscite favored prohibition, the Liberals' plank bound them to exert their whole power in passing and executing appropriate measures. Now the Liberals, as every one knows, went into office with a big working majority three months ago, and a short time since I was one of a committee to wait on Mr. Laurier and his associates and remind them of their promise. Then it was that the premier made the remark I just quoted. He promised that he would cause the plebiscite to be taken within a year. We never have attempted such a thing before, and how it will be taken, whether on the Dominion or the provincial voting lists, is not yet settled.

"Our prohibitory scheme is more thoroughgoing than anything ever attempted in the United States. Not, of course, that we have not learned much from your experience with this difficult legislation. The trouble in the United States has been that, owing to the necessary freedom of interstate commerce, it was possible to take any amount of liquor into a prohibition state. You were forbidden to sell it. But you could step across the line and bring back all you wanted for your own use. And, besides, the druggists could sell any amount for medicinal purposes. We have had similar laws in certain provinces, and these laws were as ineffectual as yours have been. So our present plan is to have alcohol or liquor supplied through government agencies for medicinal, scientific or mechanical purposes and to absolutely prohibit the importation or possession of liquor or alcohol for other purposes. It will be much easier to prevent such importation at our boundary line, guarded by the customs officers, than it has been for you to keep liquor from passing the unguarded lines of your various states. The French population of the Dominion is rather averse to prohibition. On the other hand, the French are naturally so prudent, temperate and rational in their use of liquor that they won't miss whisky if it disappears. An informal plebiscite taken lately in several of our leading provinces demonstrated a ruling sentiment in favor of this proposed prohibition.

"The general council was holding its second annual session at Winnipeg. Eighteen dioceses were represented by bishops, minor clergy and laymen, and the total attendance was about 90 members. Up to four years ago there were two groups of dioceses of the Church of England in Canada. One was in the older provinces; the other had its chief in the bishop of Prince Rupert's Land, who resides at Winnipeg. But all dioceses were then consolidated into a general council, which, while formally independent of the church in the old country, will yet keep closely in touch with the English establishment. When the Canadian consolidation was effected, it was decided, rather to my disappointment, to follow the ancient pattern by naming archbishops as well as a primate. So the archbishop of Prince Rupert's Land is now in addition the primate of all Canada.

"There was an American delegation present at Winnipeg to present friendly greetings from the Protestant Episcopal church. The delegates were received with the greatest hospitality and warmth. One of our important subjects for discussion was the propriety of formally forbidding a clergyman of our church to solemnize the marriage of a divorced person. The decision reached was that the matter be referred to a committee of English bishops, which is permanently organized for similar deliberations. We shall act next year on the bishops' recommendations."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

An Eating House of Paper.

An eating house made of paper has been erected in the port of Hamburg. Its walls are composed of a double layer of paper stretched on frames and impregnated with a fire and water proof solution. A thin wooden partition affords further protection against the inclemency of the weather. The roofs and walls are fastened together by means of bolts and hinges, so that the entire structure may be rapidly taken to pieces and put up again.

HIGGINS & McKINNEY, GENTLEMEN:—The Superior Disc Grain Drill is a "Success." I drilled 60 acres in wheat last fall in corn-stalk land that was filthy with weeds and crab grass and it did the work well with no hand except the driver. It runs light and puts the wheat in uniformly, and I take pleasure in recommending it to all who want a first-class grain drill.

BOWSER ON A BIKE.

HE TAKES TO CYCLING TO STRENGTH-EN HIS CHEST.

A Double Wabble Becomes His Portion and He Imagines That Some One Hit Him With a House—The Fine Italian Hand of Mrs. Bowser Plainly Visible Again.

"Mrs. Bowser," said he the other day with great dignity, "do you know that I must do something for myself or die within a year? Plowing and mowing are all right, but they don't seem to give me strength."

"Nonsense! You are a strong and healthy man."

"I may seem to be; but, alas, I am not. I have no more muscle than a baby, and I can't walk a little without feeling faint."

"And you want some more Indian clubs or another punching bag?"

"No, ma'am, I don't. The doctor has recommended a different sort of exercise. Mr. Kane, our neighbor, will bring his bicycle here this evening, and I intend to take it out on the road and learn to ride."

"You—on—a—bicycle!" she gasped.

"Why not? Why shouldn't I ride a bicycle as well as any one else? You are opposed to it, of course, but I'm going to follow the doctor's advice. If I can lengthen my life by 20 years, it's my duty to do so. There comes Kane.
It will not be necessary for you to come and help us."

Mrs. Bowser realized that arguments were useless, and she had nothing more to say. The two men led the bike down the road, and Mr. Bowser rubbed his hands and smiled and said:

"By George, but I know it's going to make a new man of me! I'll buy one before noon tomorrow, and we'll take a ten mile spin, eh?"

"You can hardly expect to learn to ride this evening," said the neighbor.

"Why not? Say, Kane, I'll be circling around this house inside of ten minutes.
When I know that it's life or death with me, I'm bound not to lose a second. I s'pose I want to peel right down to shirt and trousers? All right. Fetch 'er up here. Makes me hungry just having the bike about the place. Now, then, the first thing is to mount, isn't it?"

"Yes. You take hold of the handles —so—and you make a spring into the saddle—so—and away you go. Think you can do it?"

"Of course I can. The old gal is opposed to my learning how to ride, but—"

Mr. Bowser seized the handles and sprang for the saddle. When he recovered consciousness, he was on the broad of his back in the dust, and Mr. Kane was fanning him with an old wash-board which he had found in the grass.

"Has anything happened?" asked Mr.
Bowser as he looked around.

"Nothing in particular. You were tired and lay down to rest."

"Yes—I know—I see. I suppose you used to do that way. Seen anything of Mrs. Bowser?"

"No."

"Then trot up the health restorer again. I'll put a little more spring into my legs this time."

Mr. Kane held the bike this time and helped Mr. Bowser to mount. He also suggested that he walk alongside the machine until the novice had got his nerve, but Mr. Bowser replied:

"When we get around to that window, you give me a shove down the slope and let go. I see how she works, and I'll surprise you. After I've made about three circuits you can call Mrs. Bowser up and I'll show her a scorch. They call it 'scorching' when you beat greased lightning, don't they?"

"Yes, I believe they do. Now, then, I'm going to let go."

"Let 'er go—rah—whoop!"

When Mr. Bowser woke up this time he was in his bed, while Mrs. Bowser sat holding his hand and trying to look very sympathetic.

"This—this isn't heaven, is it?" he whispered, as he looked around.

"Oh, no, dear," replied Mrs. Bowser, as she smoothed back his hair. "You are still on earth. How do you feel?"

"Who hit me with a house?"

"No one. You were learning to ride a bike to lengthen out your days, you know."

"And what—what?"

"You got what I believe they call a double wabble, followed by a header."

Mr. Kane got a neighbor to help bring you down here. The doctor has been here and gone. He said your neck wasn't broken, but it would probably be four weeks before you got outdoors again.
Do you feel that your appetite has improved?"

Mr. Bowser closed his eyes and groaned.

"The doctor said if you would only stick to it you would surely live to be 100 years old."

Mr. Bowser opened his eyes and sat up, and, after glaring around him for half a minute, he shouted:

"Woman, I understand! It is another attempt to assassinate me! Let the lawyers come the first thing in the morning and draw up the necessary papers, and by evening all can be settled."

"There—there, dear, don't talk too much," she said as she forced him back on the pillow. "I will hold your hand and hum to you, and do try and go to sleep. Close your eyes, now, and forget all about the double wabble, which has done so much to strengthen your chest.
S-s-s-h! S-s-s-h! S-s-s-h!"

M. QUAD.

Why She Remained.

"I notice your wife didn't go to the lakes this summer."

"No, I couldn't afford it."

"That is what I told my wife, but you may remember that she went just the same."

"I didn't tell my wife. I got a hotel typewriter girl to address an envelope to me in a nice feminine hand and then dropped it out of my pocket at home."

ACCLIMATING COWS SOUTH.

A Texas Breeder Who Imported Jerseys Successfully Into His State.

A gentleman living in Harrison county, Tex., has succeeded in importing Jersey cows into the state and has had them thrive and do well. How he kept some of them from having any acclimatization fever at all he details in a letter published in The Breeder's Gazette. How he cured others that did take the fever he relates in the same letter. It is of much importance to persons who would like to have Jersey cows in the far south. The Texan says in answer to a letter of inquiry:

"Replying to the inquiries you pro-pound, I would prefer doing so by detailing my experience in acclimating cattle in Texas brought in from north of the fever line. My first importation was, I think, in the fall of the year 1888. It consisted of about 15 head of females and the grand young bull King Bijon 20755, A. J. C. C., the last bought of Mr. Erskine Miller, Staunton, Va. I gave these cattle newly made barns and new, well shaded pastures that had not been used by native cattle.
During their period of acclimation I used disinfectants about my barns, stalls, etc. (lime and carbolic acid), and adopted all other sanitary measures that I could conceive of to insure their passing through the period of acclimation safely. They were fed in the cold season bran, oats and well cured corn fodder.
In the warm season bran and abundant pasture. They also had during the whole time an abundance of pure, fresh water. None of these cattle had the fever and were all safely acclimated.
Inference: under like conditions I would expect the same results in any other case.
I am now acclimating 16 head brought here from the north about the 1st of December last. I am using the quarantine system with them, giving them new barns and pasture grounds not heretofore in use by native cattle. They are healthy to date."

"My second importation of Jersey cattle were placed in barns and pastures with those I had already acclimated.
In a brief time they had Texas fever among them. The first case, a protracted one, died. During the time she was sick she would neither eat nor drink to amount to anything. Actually she seemed to starve to death, and I resolved that in all cases I might have afterward I would give the animal by drenching something to nourish and sustain it. To this end immediately after the next one took sick and quit eating I had her given one quart of fresh sweet milk just taken from a healthy cow, and this was repeated morning, noon and night, increasing the quantity if the cow seemed to crave it and finally giving her all she would drink.
I began the milk as a drench. In a short time she would drink it from the bucket. The cow improved promptly and steadily on this, soon took other food and was all right. I kept her about my barn for two or three weeks, watched and cared for her, then returned her to my pasture an acclimated cow. This is but an epitome of my management of the balance of that importation—all of them had the disease and recovered.
This has been the history of the disease so far as I have dealt with it. In all my after importations when they have had the fever, and nearly all have had it. I have only lost to date one Jersey animal by climatic fever, and that was the first case I ever dealt with. Of course the effect of the sweet milk was a mystery to me. I gave it as nourishment to a sick animal, and it recovered; have continued it and all others have recovered.
I have not felt like heralding this as a cure for the fever. It may yet need more extended trial. One swallow does not make a summer, and the experience of others may be different from mine.
Possibly extraneous circumstances and the extraordinary care and attention given my cattle during the whole period of acclimation, as already outlined, may account in a great measure for my good fortune with them in this disease."

In connection with the sweet milk the gentleman gave his Jerseys with Texas fever the following: First a dose of physic—three-fourths to 1 1/4 pounds of epsom salts. Give this whether the animal is constipated or not. Follow this right along with the sweet milk, which should be fresh and warm from a healthy cow, one quart morning, noon and night, increasing if the cow wants it, and use as a drench if required.

Live Stock Points.

Farmers will do well to pay more attention to the production of choice mutton. What is wanted is an animal whose meat is tender and one that will mature quickly, at the same time laying on flesh. The mutton market is growing constantly and will continue to grow the better the meat is.

Before a mutton lamb is weaned it should be made accustomed to eating bran and a little oilmeal. After weaning, it should be fed liberally on oats, second crop clover or rape and white turnips. Lambs intended for slaughter should have a little grain every day even when on pasture.

Lambs that are fed on grain along with green food make much more rapid gains than those that get green food alone.

At a late auction sale of yearling thoroughbreds at Sheephead Bay race track, New York, 19 colts and fillies brought prices ranging from $1,800 to $50. The highest price, $1,800, was paid for a bay colt by imp. Muscovy, dam Fedora II. The highest price paid for a filly was $800, sire imp. St. Blaise, dam Georgetown.

Oct. 1 is the date when western sheep breeders deliver over their herds to the feeders who are to prepare them for market. When contracts between the two parties are made, the agreement very wisely calls for dipping before delivery. This is indispensable if our great sheep herders and feeders would keep sheep pens and ticks from their flocks. Scab will lose thousands of dollars in a single flock.

NEW PARIS PALACES.

BUILDINGS FOR THE UNIVERSAL EX-POSITION OF 1900.

Architectural Marvels to Cost Thousands of Francs Designed by Famous French Artists—The Buildings to Be Permanent After the Big Fair Is Over.

A most important architectural feature of the universal exposition to be held in Paris in 1900 will be the two new palaces to be erected in the Champs Elysees. Plans for both buildings have now been selected, and the work will presently be under way.

The selection was made deliberately by competition. There has, of course, been some discussion of the jury's award, but the character of the jurors has been enough to repress any expression of real discontent. Well it might, with such men for jurors as Ed Dettaille and Paris Chavannes, presidents respectively of the Association of French Artists and the National Society of Fine Arts; M.
Henry Boucher, minister of commerce; M. A. Picard, commissioner general, and M. Henri Roujon, director of fine arts for the exposition.

Sixty plans were submitted for the grand palace, which is to be the most imposing architectural monument of the exposition. No less a sum than 45,000 francs was offered. The judges began by eliminating about one-half the plans offered. About 30 remained, and this number was without difficulty again cut in two, leaving 15. This remnant, representing much and varied talent, was subdivided and classified, with the result indicated in the following paragraph:

First premium, 15,000 francs, M.
Louvvet; second premium, 12,000 francs, M. Deglane and Binet; third premium, $8,000 francs, M. Thomas; fourth premium, 6,000 francs, M. Girault; fifth premium, 4,000 francs, M. Tropoy-Bailly.

M. Louvvet's plans are considered a real triumph of interior arrangement and artistic imagination of the highest order. The principal facade, which is reproduced herewith, at once disposed the jury in the artist's favor.

The artist has endeavored to modify as little as possible the aspect of the Champs Elysees. The new avenue leading from the Champs Elysees to the Invalides has not been neglected. The palace is to be surrounded with trees and gardens, which will have the appearance of connecting naturally with the existing trees and shrubbery in the famous promenade.

As to the palace itself, it contains two monumental staircases and an immense entrance hall. On the first floor are the salons reserved for the exhibition of paintings. An enormous salon is set aside for sculpture, and plenty of space has been reserved for smaller exhibition rooms, a great cafe, restaurant, etc.

The rooms on the ground floor will have abundant light. Those on the first floor will be lighted from above, excepting the salon of honor, which has immense bay windows and balconies.

This palace is to be a permanent building and will be utilized for the annual horse show. A track can easily be laid on the ground floor, and arrangements have been made for stabling underground.

M. Charles Girault, by unanimous vote of the jury, secured first prize for the lesser palace—5,000 francs—and also fourth prize for the grand palace—4,000 francs. M. Girault is 45 years of age and a native of Cosne. The Palace of Hygiene, on the Esplanade des Invalides, and the pavilion of the chamber of commerce, on the banks of the Seine, two notable features of the exposition of 1889, were his. He is now building the monument which Mme. Pasteur, widow of the illustrious savant, has dedicated to her husband's memory at the Pasteur institute in the Rue Dutot, where M.
Pasteur's body is eventually to be interred.—Exchange.

INJURED BY X RAYS.

Leary, the Glass Enter, Seriously Hurt by the Experiments.

In a lodging house at Oakland, Cal., weak and pale and almost broken in spirit, lies Willie Leary, a young man who has amused the public by eating glass tumblers and lamp chimneys, and he is strong in the belief that all of his troubles are due to efforts to view his interior anatomy by means of the X ray.

After several experiments at glass eating physicians put him on a table with the cathode ray apparatus strapped to his back. When the current was turned on, he received a severe shock and had his back burned badly. This has developed into a malignant sore, which covers a large portion of his back. His nerves were so shattered that he cannot eat glass until greatly improved.

"They told me they would not hurt me," he said, "so I let them put on the cathode ray. It knocked me down and burned my back horribly. It was over two weeks ago, but it burns awfully yet, and I can't sleep at night. It caught me in the muscles, too, so that the doctors say I will not be well for five or six years. If that is so, I will die, for I can't stand it."—San Francisco Call.

Marriage at a Funeral.

At Buffalo Valley, W. Va., the other day occurred the funeral of Mrs. Marion Newman. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Newman and Miss Melinda Daniels, a cousin of Newman's dead wife, stepped forward, handed a license to the minister and requested to be married. The marriage ceremony was performed, much to the astonishment of the mourners of the dead woman.

Wood For Lances.

It is proposed to substitute bamboo for ash wood for the lances of English cavalry regiments, as the ash used is said to be brittle and not to be trusted in actual warfare.

CRIMSON CLOVER BALLS.

When Fully Ripe, Dry and Stiff, They Injure Animals' Stomachs.

The United States agricultural department has issued a circular on the subject of the injury dried, hard, crimson clover balls or barbs cause in the stomachs of animals, particularly horses, to which they are fed. These dry crimson clover balls sometimes mat together into a tough porcupine-like mass which makes trouble the larger it grows. Horses and cows have been killed from this cause. Circular No. 8 of the agricultural department is the one which gives the information in regard to the trouble and its prevention.
Our readers can obtain it by writing to Washington. Part of it is quoted below:

It is only in the fully mature, over-ripe plant that the hairs become as stiff and well barbed as those found in the balls, and even then the stiff hairs are confined principally to the stalks of the flower heads and the calyxes of the separate flowers. In plants which are in flower or which have not yet flowered the hairs are soft and flexible.

If overripe crimson clover is fed to horses the bristly hairs will accumulate in the stomach or intestines in spherical balls, which are increased in size by repeated additions of the same matter to their surfaces, the whole mass tending to become more compact because most of the hairs, upwardly barbed, are constantly pushing toward the center, base foremost. When a ball has reached a sufficient size—whether after a few days or several weeks we have no means of knowing—it acts as a plug in the intestine, interfering with the vital functions, and finally, after a few hours of intense suffering, the horse dies from peritonitis or some related difficulty. It is wholly improbable that a ball, unless of enormous size, remaining in the stomach and not passing into the intestine would seriously affect the health of a horse. The occurrence of hair balls in the stomach or intestine of horses, and more commonly of cattle or sheep, is well known to veterinarians.
Usually such balls are composed of hairs taken into the stomach little by little when the animals are licking their coats. These finally become matted into spherical concretions, often composed in part also of phosphatic salts or other finely divided alimentary refuse occupying the minute spaces between the hairs. In the center of the ball is frequently found a nail or some other hard object, around which the first hairs had wrapped themselves when the formation of the ball was begun.

Hair balls made up of plant hairs have also been observed, consisting of the so-called "beards" or awns of oats, barley or other grain. In all the recorded cases the plant hairs are barbed as in crimson clover, and it is doubtless true that only a plant with barbed hairs can cause trouble of this kind, unless the hairs are very long and flexible and can hold themselves together by wrapping around each other.

To explain the conditions under which the feeding of crimson clover proved so disastrous in certain parts of Delaware in 1895 it is to be noted that crimson clover when intended for hay is cut about the middle of May. If intended for a crop of seed the clover is left standing about three weeks longer. After cutting, the clover is either left one or two weeks in the cock and then thrashed directly from the field or is stacked until a more convenient time for thrashing, often a month or longer. The increasing demand for crimson clover had induced an unusually large number of farmers in 1895 to save their crop for seed instead of hay. Consequently a larger amount than usual was left to mature its seed, and many farmers had a short crop of clover hay, upon which they customarily depend at that season.
After the middle of May they were forced to fatten their stock on overripe clover, and after the clover seed harvest many of them fed their horses from the stack or, worse yet, on the straw and refuse of the thrashing machines. Most of the deaths occurred in the latter half of July, at a time, therefore, when the horses had been kept on this improper diet from six to ten weeks. A correspondent in Delaware has recently expressed his belief, based on an experience of several years in feeding crimson clover, that dampening the hay with water several hours before feeding entirely prevents the formation of hair balls.

Though crimson clover has long been in use in Europe as a forage plant, nothing appears to have been published there regarding its liability to form hair balls, and nothing therefore regarding treatment of cases. When the balls have once developed to such a size that they cannot pass through the intestines, no practical remedy can be suggested. But the prevention of the difficulty is in most cases easy. The hairs of crimson clover do not become stiff until the plant has passed the flowering stage and begun to ripen.

It should be made a rule, therefore, never to feed crimson clover after the crop has ceased flowering, and especially never to follow the pernicious practice of feeding stock with the straw of crimson clover raised and thrashed as a seed crop. By guarding against improper methods of feeding there is no reason why crimson clover should not continue to maintain its well merited reputation and increase in use as a foliage plant and green manure.

Live Stock Points.

It pays to feed oilmeal to sheep.

There is no better all round balanced ration for hogs than milk.

A brood sow should have feed before farrowing of bran mash, turnips and other roots, with milk, slop, etc., only a very little corn being given. Corn is too heating.

Nothing is better for lambs in winter and early spring than some green rye, and now is the time to sow it. It can be nibbled off in spring soon enough for its roots to be plowed under and a crop of something else sown upon the same ground.

AN ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is given that an election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 3rd, 1896.

At the regular November Election, in Lincoln county, Ky., for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal and qualified voters of said county on the proposition whether or not to have Free Turnpikes and Gravel Roads in said county of Lincoln.
Said election will be held in pursuance of an order of the judge of the Lincoln County Court, made and entered at the August term of said court, 1896, which order is in words and figures, as follows, to-wit:

Regular Term Lincoln County Court, held Aug.
6, 1896, Hon. Geo. M. Davidson, Judge Presiding.

In the matter of J. M. Cook and others, voters of Lincoln county, Ky., for a vote in said county upon the proposition to have Free Turnpikes and Gravel Roads in said county.

On motion of the applicants' counsel herein, the application of J. M. Cook and others, voters of Lincoln county, Ky., heretofore directed to, and received by the County Judge of the Lincoln Co.
Court, was submitted to the judge of said court at the regular August term thereof and on the 10th day of August, 1896, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the judge of said court that a written application asking for a vote upon the proposition to have Free Turnpikes and Gravel Roads in Lincoln county, Ky., was heretofore, to-wit: On the 6th day of August, 1896, presented to and received by said judge, and that said written application was signed by a number of voters of said Co. of Lincoln equal to 25 per cent. of the vote cast at the last preceding election held in said county, which was a general and regular election, and the petition making said application having paid for it a sufficient amount of money to pay for the orders, printing, advertising and all other necessary expenses connected with the election, prayed for it is now therefore ordered that an election be held in Lincoln county, Kentucky, at the next

MR. W. G. LACKEY, who recently went to St. Louis to practice law, had to pass a most rigid examination there before he was admitted to the bar. At the time he was examined 13 others were also. DEBATE.—Mr. W. E. Perkins and Squire John Elmiston will have a joint debate at a school-house near Crab Orchard Saturday night.

OUT.—Frank S. Green, of the West End, sends us word to withdraw his announcement for assessor. His business, he says, is such that he can not give his race the attention needed.

The young ladies did not realize as much as they expected on their pound party at the college Friday evening. Money was scarce and bidding slow so only about $15 reached the treasury for missions. Mr. S. W. Menefee was auctioneer and proved a good one.

The Bryan Club met at the court house Friday night and speeches by President Vandever and others were enjoyed. The attendance was small but what was lacking in size was made up in enthusiasm. Twenty-six names were added to the club, making the membership now over 180. On next Friday night one or more good speakers will be on hand, when it is hoped that every member and others will be there.

HELD FOR ASSAULT.—B. Reynolds, charged with detaining Miss Lucy Singleton against her will, was tried before Squire Faulkner at Waynesburg, Friday, and held in $100 to the circuit court. The small amount of bail shows the doubt of the jury as to the establishment of the charge. From Hon. R. C. Warren, who defended him, we learn that Reynolds is 21 and the woman 32, very fat and shapeless, and that her reputation was successfully assailed on the trial.

ENTHUSIASTIC.—Hon. R. C. Warren made a speech at Kingsville Friday night which was listened to by an enthusiastic crowd of people, who piled upon each other to hear it. For an hour or so the speaker dispensed democratic doctrine pure and simple, which was loudly applauded throughout and at the close a rising vote of thanks was given the old war horse of democracy for his splendid effort. Young Mr. Owens, who has recently moved to this county from Palaski, also made a telling speech. A call for those who wished to join the Bryan club was then made when 63 came forward and signed, making the enrollment now 150 and the club the largest as it is the most enthusiastic in the county, in proportion to the voting strength of the precinct.

JUNCTION CITY.—A few guests are still left at Linnietta Springs, although the weather has been almost cold enough for snow. Extensive improvements will be made on the buildings next year, Manager Owens, says.—W. T. Richardson, the general merchant, is preparing to build, having tired of paying rent.—Mr. Frank Green suffered another stroke of paralysis a few days ago and is now in a precarious condition. He is thoroughly helpless and it is believed that he can not live long.—Judge Davidson and a Mr. Sieber, of Ohio, spoke here a few nights ago. The first named led off with a characteristic speech, i. e. abusing the democrats and promising great things if he were elected to Congress, while the latter sought to entertain the crowd by telling anecdotes. He is as far from being a comedian though, those who heard him, say as he is a stumper and the quicker the rags pull him in the better the party in these diggings will be off.—D. Hall, the restauranter, has thrown up the sponge and quit business.—Mr. W. T. Richardson will be the I. J.'s. correspondent from this place in the future.—Free silver is growing in popularity as the election draws near. The republicans are scared because of a number of their "strongest" declaring for Bryan and Sewall and Thompson, and are using means fair and foul to gain from the democratic ranks what they have lost. They can't do it, though, for with the exception of two, those democrats who were wavering have been converted. Junction City is a small place compared with Danville, but she intends to try to offset the defection there by her gain from the radical ranks.
